Wyoming Secretary of State to Announce Election Integrity Priorities for 2026 Legislature

CHEYENNE, WY – On Thursday, December 18th at 10 a.m., Secretary of State Chuck Gray will hold a press conference to discuss his election integrity legislative agenda for the 2025 Legislative Session.

“I look forward to announcing our election integrity priorities on Thursday,” Secretary Gray said. “We had a very successful 2025 legislative session in advancing our election integrity priorities, including proof of citizenship for registering to vote. But there is more to be done. As Wyoming’s Secretary of State and Wyoming’s chief election official, I will continue our work on conservative, election integrity reforms. As we prepare for the 2026 Legislative Session, I look forward to announcing several common-sense election integrity measures to serve the People of Wyoming, including our efforts to require pen and paper ballots and increase security of our chain of custody procedures. I look forward to announcing all of these priorities, and more, during our press conference on Thursday.”
