Secretary Gray Applauds Wyoming District Court's Dismissal of Challenge to Wyoming's Primary System

CHEYENNE, WY – On July 22nd, Wyoming State District Court Judge Daniel Forgey dismissed a lawsuit filed by Jimmy Skovgard challenging Wyoming's closed primary system, granting a motion to dismiss filed by Wyoming Secretary of State Chuck Gray in May.

In a statement applauding the Court's dismissal, Secretary Gray said, "I applaud this common-sense order siding with our position and dismissing this outrageously wrong lawsuit brought by the radical left. Wyoming's primary system is vital to the integrity of Wyoming's elections. Primary elections like Wyoming's withstand scrutiny around the country as a basic method of choosing candidates for the general election. These baseless lawsuits show how far the radical left will go to dismantle the core systems of our republic. I take these attacks on our primary system very seriously, and we have defended lawsuit after lawsuit to ensure the integrity of our elections. This is another huge win for election integrity in Wyoming."
