Secretary Gray Presents Wyoming State Constitutions to Students in Lincoln County

CHEYENNE, WY – On November 27, Wyoming Secretary of State Chuck Gray presented to junior high and senior high school students in Lincoln County concerning the importance of the United States Constitution and Wyoming State Constitution. Secretary Gray was also able to provide a history of the Wyoming Constitutional Convention and the importance of its signing, and provide students with United States and Wyoming Constitutions purchased by private donors, including Wyoming State Representative Scott Heiner. The Wyoming Secretary of State publishes the Wyoming Constitution.

“It is so important that our students understand and appreciate the history, meaning, and importance of the United States and Wyoming Constitutions,” Secretary Gray said. “I appreciate the opportunity to speak with the students in Kemmerer on the history and importance of the United States and Wyoming Constitutions. I am especially grateful for the thought-provoking questions asked by the students, and am excited about the future of our state and our country. A special thank you to Moms for Liberty for working with the Lincoln County school system to organize these events, and all those who generously donated their time and resources to this effort.”
